Guild Decides to Take Offer of Publishers

NEW YORK (AP)-Leaders of the nonstriking Newspaper Guild have decided by a one-vote margin to recommend to their membership a publishers' proposal aimed at ending the 99-day newspaper blackout. The 9-to-8 vote Friday favored a $4.13 a week wage bonus to be added to guild wage scales, starting Oct. 31, 1964, and to extend their contract so its termination date would coincide with that of other newspaper unions.

Individual AFL-CIO guild units will vote Sunday and Monday on the proposed terms.

Negotiations with seven other newspaper unions still are incomplete. But a guild membership acceptance of a common contract expiration date, plus the wage bonus, was seen as the key to resumption of publication next week by eight newspapers.

The guild previously accepted an $8.50 a week package for its 6,000 editorial and business department members.

A week ago, the 3,000 printers and the New York Publishers Association agreed tentatively on a $12.50 a week contract package. # Dr. Anders' Dilemma By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant

Chapter XXIV

The weather entered a vicious conspiracy against Nancy and David. The rain ceased by day, began again at nightfall on Saturday. Although they exchanged greetings in the ward and managed hasty, disguised avowals of everlasting love, although David had the evidence of Nancy's safety before him, it became increasingly important for him to know how she had managed. There was a need to enter into every moment of her life, to receive her into every moment of his; and the weather would not permit. Dissatisfied with himself, with the world, David moved aimlessly through the halls; into the interns' lounge; back to the ward, where Granville, a first-year intern, was on night duty; to emergency, back to the lounge. "Melton, Ward G, speaking. Melton, Ward G. Pardon me, Dr. Anders, if I seem to be intruding." Melton laughed at David's elbow. "You now, I've been talking to you for three minutes . . ."

"Sorry. Melton," he said, throwing down the book he had been pretending to read. "You were saying something about this wave of Asian flu, I know it." Melton was serving in two medididn't know that fellow, I'd say girl trouble." David found Bim at the eleva-thority to make such inquiries. The side trip into newsprint prices came during Smith's second day as a witness in bearings being conducted by Celler's House Antitrust subcommittee on the concentration of ownership of news media.

Celler said the subcommittee's in
